Who was Clara?

Clara is named in honor of Clara Driscoll (1861-1944), head of the Tiffany Studios women's glass cutting department from 1892 to 1909. Driscoll and her staff of self-styled "Tiffany Girls" labored in anonymity. The New-York Historical Society was instrumental in revealing that Driscoll was the designer behind many of the firm's celebrated glass shades. A number of Driscoll's creations are currently on view in the Museum's Gallery of Tiffany Lamps.
